Chicago, Ill. (June 2009) – Throughout the world a growing community of traders and investors are embracing a methodology that “lifts the fog” on international markets. TradeGuider Systems International is giving its members more with a new, one-of-a-kind VSA Club (www.VSAClub.com), which launched the beginning of June. For the first time ever traders and investors now have an online resource and community forum with a comprehensive suite of services and benefits specifically for VSA Club members.

“What makes the VSA Club different from anything out there is our ability to offer additional educational resources and methodology directly to our members,” said Gavin Holmes, CEO TradeGuider Systems International. “The VSA Club gives members the chance to interact with our high-profile industry expert panel and provide input to help us develop better software and education programs.”

Holmes adds that the panel includes Tom Williams a retired US Syndicate Trader, inventor of Volume Spread Analysis and Chairman of TradeGuider Systems International. Other VSA Panel members are Sebastian Manby, Brad Bedford-Brown, Dr. Gary Dayton, all VSA experts along with Holmes.

“Since inventing Volume Spread Analysis I could never fully see the potential for serious traders and investors until TradeGuider developed the VSA Club,” said Tom Williams. “Its uniqueness is unmatched along with its ability to encourage individuals to learn, understand and use VSA more efficiently.”
